

OFFICERS OF 12TH FACE DISCIPLINE

War Department Indignant at "Unsolderly" Resignations

FRICION WITH O'RYAN IS SEEN

One Official Urges Spanking Recalcitrants and Sending Them Back

(From The Tribune Bureau.)
Washington, Dec. 1.—War Department officials expressed high indignation today at the "unsolderly" conduct of the officers of the 12th New York Regiment in resigning their commissions because they were compelled by Major General O'Ryan to pass twice in review before Senator Wadsworth and a Mexican officer. Although Secretary Baker said he would not comment publicly until official reports had been received, it was apparent that unless the official account should develop new facts severe discipline would be administered.

According to reports here, Colonel Gordon Johnston, a regular army captain and former aide to General Leonard Wood, Major George E. Roosevelt, a cousin of the ex-President, and other officers of the regiment became indignant at what they regarded as a humiliation and handed in their resignations. These resignations must be forwarded to the War Department by the Governor of New York, but after that the affair is in the hands of the Federal government exclusively until successors are appointed, when the nominations must come from Governor Whitman.

Army Officers Surprised
Regular army officers were surprised particularly that Colonel Johnston, a regular army officer, should be guilty of an action that they might be regarded as childish in the militia officers. It was the consensus of opinion among officers here that, although the provocation was probably more severe than appears on the surface of the account, there can be no extension of the resignation of Johnston, who must be dealt with according to the strict letter of army discipline.

The militia officers, however, probably will be let off easier because of their lack of training in army standards. As one officer expressed it, they ought to be spanked and sent back to their jobs.

Officers Humiliated
The humiliation of which the officers complained was deepened by the fact that a Senator from their state was present, as well as an officer of a foreign government. General O'Ryan, who had invited these and other prominent persons to review the 12th, was dissatisfied with their showing and ordered them to pass a second time. He criticised the fact that their flag was furled and that they were drawn up in two battalions instead of three.

Officers here say it is not unusual for an officer reviewing troops to ask them to repeat the maneuvers, and, therefore, they cannot sympathize with the officers for their resignation. It is supposed here that the incident grew out of a state of feeling between General O'Ryan and the officers of the 12th, which was dissipated by their showing and ordered them to pass a second time. He criticised the fact that their flag was furled and that they were drawn up in two battalions instead of three.

Washington May Adjust "Insult" to the Twelfth

(By Telegrams to The Tribune.)
McAllen, Tex., Dec. 1.—The only possible adjustment of the strained situation resulting from the resignation of the officers of the 12th Regiment because of the "insult" suffered when

Major General O'Ryan ordered the regiment to repeat its review, seems to lie with Washington. It is thought that if an inspector general were sent by the War Department to adjust the matter and give members of the regiment an opportunity to explain an understanding might be reached.

Although the resignations are on their official way to Washington they have been held up at division headquarters in the belief that the War Department may take some action which would settle the difference without the acceptance of the resignations.

Tremendous but suppressed excitement pervades the rank and file of the regiment. Loyalty to their commanding officers compels a rigid obedience to orders on the part of all the men, but the atmosphere is tense.

As an evidence of the keenness with which General O'Ryan's order struck home one of the officers, who works high in social and political circles in New York, is quoted as follows:

"We will not see the 12th disgraced New York, but we feel that under the present conditions we can no longer serve our country with honor."

With sentiments such as that expressed by the officers whose men were compelled to march again past review officers because, the aspect of circumstances which were beyond their control, there is thought to be small chance that any of the resignations will be withdrawn unless overtures are made by those in authority at Washington.

It is rumored on good authority that as the 12th passed the first line in review, a reviewing officer exclaimed: "I am pleased to see that the 12th is fully equipped according to army regulations."

Regular Officers Uphold Furling of 12th's Colors

Local military men said yesterday that friction had appeared on several occasions between Colonel Johnston and the divisional staff. The colonel's attitude that the fight was his own and not one in which his officers should share strengthened their theory that his resignation was the result of personal difficulties.

The general resignation of the officers apparently is a tribute to Colonel Johnston, who has been the idol of his regiment since he assumed its command, last July. No official notification of any resignation except that of the colonel was forwarded to the division headquarters here yesterday and the final outcome may be the retirement of Colonel Johnston alone. In such an event he would resume his rank of captain in the regular army and be detailed to other duties.

Regular army officers stationed at Governors Island knew no details of the difficulties of the 12th yesterday. Regarding the carrying of the colors furled in the review before Senator Wadsworth on Wednesday, given as one of the reasons for the second review of the regiment, it was said that the colonel was right in keeping them that way if the wind was strong enough to further injure them in their tattered state. The repetition of a movement was not unusual during parade, it was said, but no officer could recollect an order being given to send troops back during a public review.

"Colonel Johnston is one of the finest men in the service," General Wood declared. "His work as commander of the 12th has been most efficient and the 12th has been most efficient as a whole. The news of his resignation came as a great surprise to me."

DOMINION REVENUES GROW

Average $5,000,000 a Month More Than Last Year—Public Works Curtailed

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 1.—Despite the war, Canada's revenue continues to grow. For the six months ended November 30, the revenue totalled $144,812,570, a record, and more than forty million dollars greater than for the same period in 1915. The total for November was $23,164,767, $5,000,000 over the same month last year.

There is to be further curtailment of expenditure on Canadian public works. Work on the new Welland Canal will be discontinued this month and will not be resumed until the end of the year. This was expected to cost $500,000. Expenditure on the Hudson Bay railway will be curtailed considerably.

Home for Children Opened

The Mary Stevens Hammond Home for Children, an addition to the United Aid House, 1036 Park Avenue, Hoboken, N. J., was dedicated and formally opened yesterday. The home was the gift of Assemblyman Ogden Hammond, of Somerset County, who built it as a memorial to his wife, one of the Lusitania victims. Mary Stevens Hammond, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. Hammond, unveiled a tablet to the memory of her mother.

Every Jew in New York City will find it a wonderfully interesting meeting—good music—fine speaking—contagious enthusiasm. Will you come?

If so, be sure to come early. We are reserving one entire balcony to be thrown open to the public.

Your aid financially or in a few hours' service will be peculiarly acceptable just at this time. 2,000 Jewish volunteers are needed and as yet we have only 700 in service. Report for duty at Federation Rooms, Hotel Biltmore, any time during next week. Even one or two hours' assistance will help us.

Remember, we need $2,000,000 to make Federation possible—and now we are within less than $500,000 of that sum.

3 SAVED AT FIRE BY DISMISSED COP

McGowan, Long 'Unemployed, Carries Women 3 Stories to Street

IS HALTED TRYING TO RESCUE ANOTHER

Has to Climb Up Wall of Building—"He's No Coward," Wife Says

To Frank J. McGowan, plodding sullenly home along East Seventy-fourth Street early yesterday morning, came the chance for what he had been praying for two years. Out from the wall of the tenement at 237 a tongue of flame suddenly beckoned, and McGowan thanked God and ran toward it.

A policeman who has been "broke" does not get another job easily. Since June, 1914, McGowan had learned this to his sorrow. An occasional night's work as a special policeman at some East Side dance hall—enough to keep his wife Catherine and the four children from starving—has been his chief employment.

Men do not want a man who has been thrown out of the department, McGowan knew this, but it was not that thought which made him swear joyously as he ran toward the fire.

Three screaming women stood on the third floor balcony of the fire escape as McGowan ran up the steps to the house.

"Don't jump!" he yelled, plunging into the smoke-filled vestibule beyond the hall door the stairway was filled with flame.

McGowan returned to the street. On the balcony the three white-clad figures still stood. A floor below them the fire escape ended. A steel ladder was there to be lowered, but there was no one to fasten it.

"It's my chance," the man muttered, and went after the ladder, crawling up the front of the building like a fly. Fingers and toes hooked into what crevices he could find as he made his way slowly upward. Twice he slipped and almost fell, but he kept on until his raw finger tips touched the iron of the fire escape again, but he could not get up.

"You've done enough, whoever you are," he said. "Let my men do something. This isn't your private fire."

McGowan only gave a tired smile and walked away. But it wasn't long before words that made it so pleasant to go home. It wasn't just the thought that he had done a stiff piece of work in a man's way.

"I know he was never a coward," his wife said last night. "They broke him, but he showed them what he is. He's made me awful happy," she added faintly.

That is why Frank J. McGowan slept more peacefully last night than he has for the last two years.

LONDON AIDED FIRST WIFE

Requests to Her and Her Children in His Will

San Rosa, Cal., Dec. 1.—The will of Jack London, the author, who died on November 22, leaves the bulk of his estate, on which he placed no value, to his widow, Charmion K. London. The will was filed to-day in the Superior Court here, and bore date of May 24, 1911. London asked specifically that the document be not probated and that letters testamentary be issued to his sister, Mrs. Eliza Shepard, and Willard L. Grovel.

To the author's divorced wife, Mrs. Bessie M. London, $5 is bequeathed, and also the house in which she lives in Oakland, Cal., until "she marries again," when it will revert to the estate. London's two children, his first marriage, Joan and Bess London, receive $25 a month each and his life insurance policy, the amount of which is not stated.

Another provision of the will is the request that "my two daughters, Joan and Bess, be personally housed and cared for by my beloved wife Charmion, of whose fitness and goodness I am confident."

MARKET BOOMS STAMP SALE

$1,011,983 Spent for Stock Transfers in Single Month a Record

Eugene M. Travis, State Controller, reported yesterday that his office had received in November $1,011,983 from the sale of stock transfer tax stamps. This broke all records for a single month. When the state budget was being prepared last winter, it was estimated that the state would receive $5,000,000 for the fiscal year from this source.

Deputy Controller Boardman said that he believed the revenues might amount to $8,000,000 for the year ending June next. The total from last June to date is $3,509,006.

This is largely due to the great activity in the stock market and also to the close check which Mr. Boardman has kept on all market transactions.

The Deputy Controller celebrated yesterday the making of the new record by giving a luncheon to the examiners of the stock transfer tax bureau of the Controller's New York office.

U. S. WORLD'S JEWEL CASKET

Gems Worth $47,054,274 Imported in Eleven Months Customs Records Show

Is America becoming the jewel casket of the world as well as the storehouse of its gold?

The merchants of Maiden Lane point with pride to the appraisers' figures for the importation of gems in the last eleven months. This total of imports is $47,054,274 and the prediction is that it will be well beyond the $50,000,000 mark by the end of December. The general prosperity of a country, it is said, is reflected in the big gem receipts.

During November cut precious stones and pearls to the value of $2,545,670, dutiable at 20 per cent, were received. The uncured stones, dutiable at 10 per cent, reached a total of $371,008, while miners' and glaziers' diamonds valued at $105,502 were checked off.

WOMEN BEGIN CONGRESS DRIVE

Advance Guard of Suffrage Lobby Brigade Due in Washington Monday

(From The Tribune Bureau.)
Washington, Dec. 1.—Headed by Mrs. Frank M. Roosevelt, of Pittsburgh, who last year was chairman of the Washington committee of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, the advance guard of the lobby brigade will make the national organization's big drive on Congress will arrive in Washington Monday. This was announced to-day by Mrs. Walter McNab Miller, chairman of the Washington committee.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who will be in charge of the lobby, is well known to both friends and foes of the Federal amendment upon Capitol Hill. This session she will have many assistants, as the national association is concentrating on Congress on a scale never before attempted.

A "mere man" lobbyist, who will be a member of Mrs. Roosevelt's corps, is expected by the women to prove effective, judging from his work in the past. He is A. E. Scranton Taylor, of Norfolk, Conn., who has been president of the Connecticut Men's Equal Suffrage League for several years. Prominent women expected to arrive on or before Monday are:

Mrs. A. E. Scranton Taylor, Norfolk, Conn.; Mrs. Charles H. Dietrich, Hastings, Neb.; Mrs. William Severin, Chicago; Mrs. Samuel L. Powers, Newton, Mass.; Mrs. Henry W. Clement, Rutland, Vt.; Mrs. Guilford Dudley, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Glendower Evans, Boston; Mrs. Helen Gardner, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Pattie Ruffner Jacobs, Birmingham; Mrs. Maud Wood Park, Boston; Mrs. Gertrude Halladay Leonard, Boston; Mrs. Charles W. Metcure, Saginaw, Mich., and Miss Mary Wood, New York.

These will reinforce the members of the Washington committee already on the ground, who are Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, formerly of the Industrial Relations Commission; Mrs. Walter McNab Miller, chairman of the Washington committee; Miss Heloise Meyer, sister of ex-Secretary of War Woodrow Wilson; and Miss Ruth White, of Kansas City.

Expected later are Mrs. Winston Churchill, Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, Miss Mary Garrett Hay and many others.

Next Saturday night will see the housewarming of the new headquarters. It is expected that on this occasion all the women assigned by the national association to carry on its work in Washington will meet the local workers. Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Smith, of Louisville, is to be the connecting link between the local and national organizations. She is a member of the Washington committee of the national organization, assigned to the local organization work.

TEIPER GIRL WILL NOT TAKE PART AGAINST BROTHER

Court and Attorneys Hear She Remembers Nothing Connected with Murder

Buffalo, Dec. 1.—Miss Grace Teiper will not be called as a witness against her brother, John Edward Teiper, on trial for the murder of their mother, Mrs. Agnes Teiper, in the Orchard Park Road last January.

That was decided to-day after physicians had reported to the court and the attorneys in the case that Miss Teiper, only survivor of the tragedy except the defendant in this trial, had no recollection of the events connected with the murder.

"It is stipulated by the attorneys," Justice Wheeler announced at the closing of court to-day, "that Miss Teiper has no recollection of the events connected with the murder of her mother."

The prosecution to-day brought out the first evidence tending to show Teiper's financial state. John H. Black, a prominent Buffalo products distributing company which controlled the plant that Teiper operated under a leasing arrangement, testified that about the middle of January, two weeks before the murder, Teiper spoke to him about buying the plant. Black told Teiper unless he was prepared to finance the undertaking all the way through the year, he could not be made.

On the day before the tragedy, Black swore, Teiper wanted to renew his lease. At that time, Black testified, Teiper owed Black's company $1,000. Black said that he had refused to renew the lease. Brick taken from the plant after Teiper's arrest cancelled this debt, the witness said.

Canadian Girl Missing a Month

Nearly a month ago Miss Margaret McKenny, nineteen years old, left the home of Frank Nutter, at 122 Saratoga Avenue, Yonkers, where she had been visiting. She announced that she was "going to the movies," but when she failed to return her friends surmised that she had returned to her home in Foster, Ontario. She did not do so, and yesterday the police of New York sent out a general alarm for the girl.

She has dark hair and dark complexion and when last seen by her friends wore a dark blue serge suit and a black tam o' shanter.

SEKS DIVORCE AND $50,000

Mrs. Benjamin F. Norris Sues Husband and Mrs. Max Shontal

Mrs. Mary Hope Norris, member of a prominent Southern family, began suit in the Supreme Court yesterday for $50,000 damages against Mrs. Pearl Margaret Shontal, wife of Max Shontal, dealer in hops and malt, for alienation of the affections of Benjamin F. Norris, her lawyer husband.

It is alleged by Mrs. Norris that Mrs. Shontal, who lives at 1 West Ninety-fourth Street, by gifts and other means, persuaded Norris to leave his wife and devote his time and attention to the defendant. She also alleges on information and belief that her husband and the wife of Mr. Shontal took several automobile trips together to places in Connecticut and New York State.

PLAN TO PUT LIFE IN PROGRESSIVES

Roosevelt and Perkins Not in Radical Wing's Move for Reorganization

BACKERS EXPECT
JOHNSON'S HELP

Some Politicians Suspect Presidential Boom for Californian

A movement to revive the Progressive party in this state and to extend its reorganization to other states has been started, according to a letter sent recently to enrolled Progressives by John Robert Taylor, Progressive state committeeman from the 18th Assembly District in Brooklyn. Mr. Taylor's letter would indicate that it is the more radical members of the party, men who voted for Wilson rather than for Hughes, who will make the attempt to resuscitate the Bull Moose. Taylor is said to have charge of the movement in this state.

Matthew Hale, of Massachusetts, acting chairman of the National Progressive Committee; J. A. H. Hopkins, of New Jersey; Judge Norton, of St. Louis; John M. Parker, of Louisiana, who was nominated for Vice-President; Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver, and Bainbridge Colby, of this city, are some of the men who, according to report, are back of the movement throughout the country.

Will Ignore Old Leaders

The old Bull Moose leaders, such as George W. Perkins, who worked hard for the election of Mr. Hughes, will not be invited to take a hand in the movement. Colonel Roosevelt will be in the Fiji Islands, and will not be consulted, it was said.

Mr. Taylor said that it was planned to hold preliminary conferences in the various states and then arrange for a national meeting, probably in St. Louis, in January or February, at which new articles of faith are expected to be written and new national leaders chosen.

The backers of the plan are looking hopefully for the cooperation of Senator-elect Hiram W. Johnson, of California. Some politicians are inclined to see the birth of a Johnson boom for President four years hence in the movement.

In Mr. Taylor's letter to New York Progressives he declares that the results of the recent election make it evident that the majority of the Progressives of the country still desire the continuance of the national Progressive party. For that reason, he says, they refused to follow some of the former Progressive leaders in their support of Senator-elect Hiram W. Johnson.

Reasons for the Call

Colonel Roosevelt's failure to get the Republican nomination at the Chicago convention is one of the reasons which emphasize the call to reorganize the party, according to Mr. Taylor. He says, like other radical Bull Moosers, he has said that the party fell into the hands of the "reactionaries." He asks the enrolled Progressives for all the information they can give in regard to conditions in their locality affecting the party.

Colonel Fisk said yesterday that he did not know yet of any instances where substantial employers had refused to give 7th Regiment men their jobs. The colonel is negotiating with several who threatened to discharge their soldier employees. He does not intend to make public the names of refractory employers until his personal efforts have failed. It is impossible to state how many men will lose places until all have had a chance to visit their employers.

Early last month Major General John F. O'Ryan, commanding the New York division in Texas, had compiled a list of 700 men in the division who at that time had lost their positions, or would probably lose them. The officers at division headquarters in Texas are still working on these data for forwarding to the Merchants' Association for action.

Inquiry among the men of the 7th leads to the conclusion that the men who sacrificed most were those who had businesses of their own, especially those who had recently started their own enterprises.

TO MUSTER OUT SEVENTH TONIGHT

Officers Busy Trying to Get Old Jobs Back for Soldiers

The 7th Regiment will be mustered out of active Federal service before to-night, unless the plans of the regular army mustering officers and the regimental staff go askew.
